

Preparing the Learners of Today for the Needs of Tomorrow:

A Review of One Pediatric Psychology Postdoctoral Fellowship Program

Katherine M. Burrell, Psy.D. & Crystal Cederna-Meko, Psy.D.

Pediatric Health Care Needs You

The Future of Pediatric Medicine

- ∅ Patient- & family-centered care
- ∅ Medical home model
- ∅ Alternative reimbursement/payment models
- ∅ Increased accountability & transparency

Future Pediatric Behavioral Health Needs

- ∅ Standard care plus prevention, health promotion, & adaptation
- ∅ Knowledge, skills, & attributes salient to medical settings
- ∅ Professional, effective, interpersonally advanced care
- ∅ Broad, flexible skill set

MORE INFO

Pediatric Clinical Health Psychology Postdoctoral Fellowship

Michigan State University's Consortium for Advanced Psychology Training

- ∅ APA accredited in Clinical Health Psychology
- ∅ 2-year pediatric psychology postdoctoral fellowship in Flint, Michigan
- ∅ Broad, longitudinal evidence-based experience
- ∅ Culturally sensitive practice in a richly diverse environment
- ∅ 100% biopsychosocial
- ∅ Cross-disciplinary, side-by-side, & bidirectional education/training
- ∅ Individual tailoring to fellows' interests & needs
- ∅ Innovative approaches to clinical practice & education

Fellowship Results

1

Exposure to extensive depth & breadth

2

Significant knowledge & skill acquisition

3

Readiness to thrive in & enrich pediatric health care settings

Former fellow feedback:

"When I finished, I was ready to confidently practice & lead"

"The diversity of clinical experience is unparalleled"

"The breadth & quality of the fellowship prepares its trainees to work in a wide range of pediatric settings"

"Warm, friendly & supportive environment"

Fellowship Outcomes

Preparedness for a variety of high-demand roles: clinician, supervisor, educator, & scholar

Capacity to shape the future of pediatric behavioral health & pediatric medicine at large

