

Prevalence Research in Service of Survivor Well-Being

anniecannons

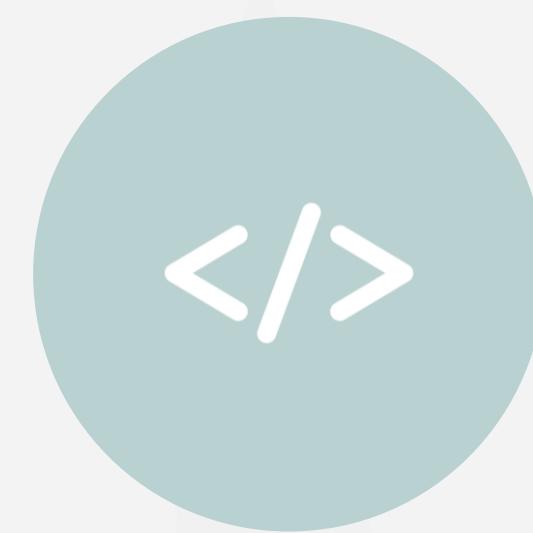

A woman with long brown hair is shown from the back, looking out over a city skyline at sunset. A network of white stars is overlaid on her hair, with lines connecting them to form a complex web. A small green circular icon is visible on the right side of her head.

anniecannons

LAUNCHING BRIGHTER FUTURES

OUR TRAINING MODEL

We apply a trauma-informed training in phases, in an innovative classroom, then build skills over a lifetime through practical experience.

BOOTCAMP STYLE TRAINING teaches core web

development skills

SUPERVISED PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE

builds advanced skills through practice

LIFETIME OF INCREASING INCOMES

leads to continuous income growth

The Anti-Slavery Movement should target Survivor Well-Being

A framing of Doctoral Candidate Minh Dang, founder of Survivor Alliance

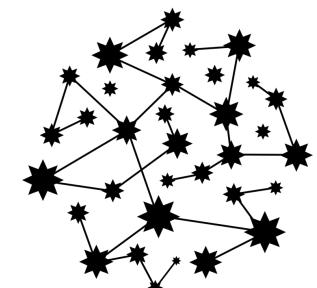

To serve survivor well-being:

1. Research is complete + conclusive
2. Results used to secure survivor resources
3. Resources are applied to Survivor Well-Being

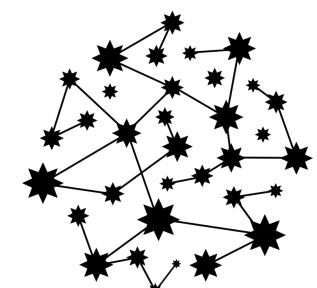

anniecannons

Measuring crime is measuring a flood
that is getting worse.

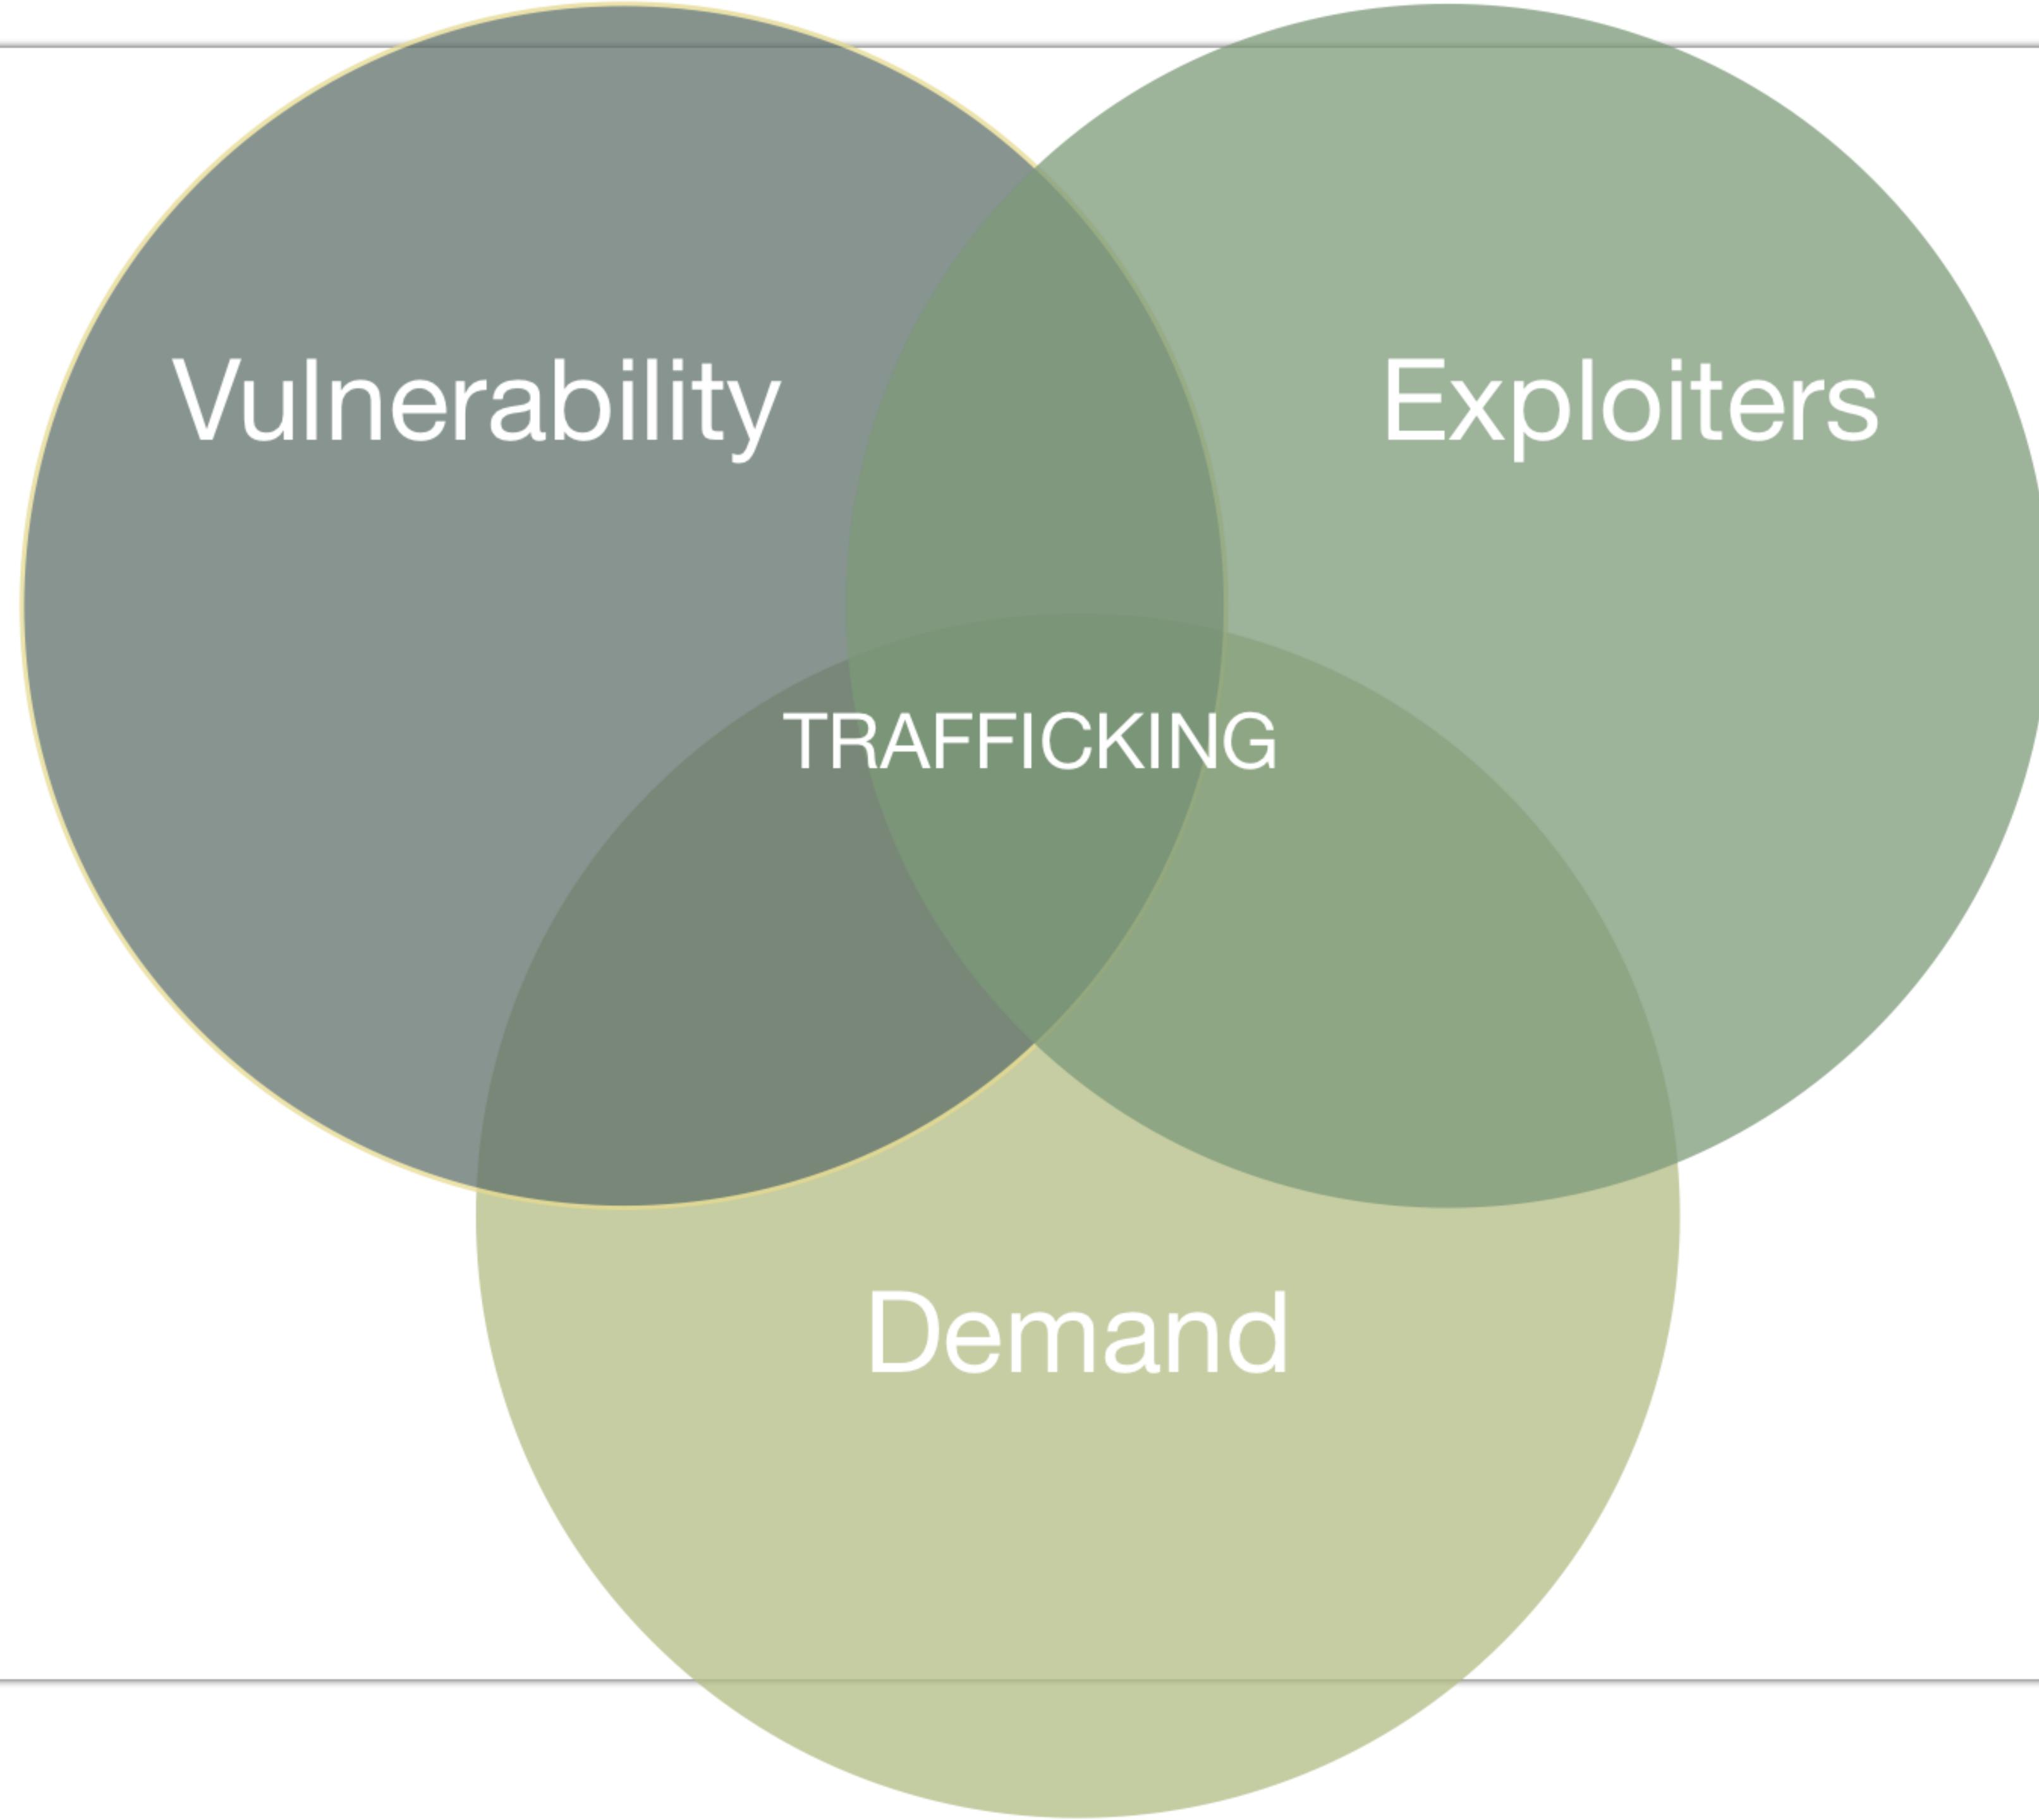

anniecannons

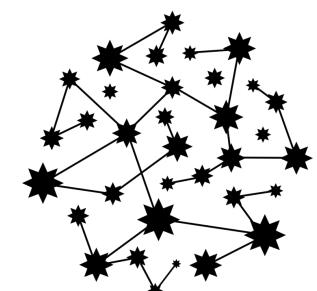

Measuring vulnerability to human trafficking

anniecannons

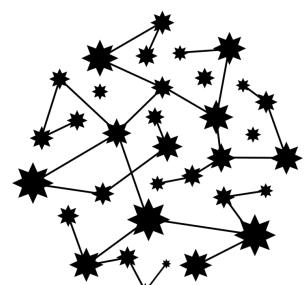

Vulnerability
exists in plain sight

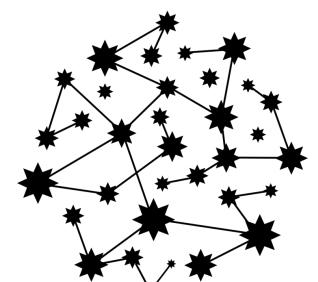

anniecannons

Vulnerability results from government actions

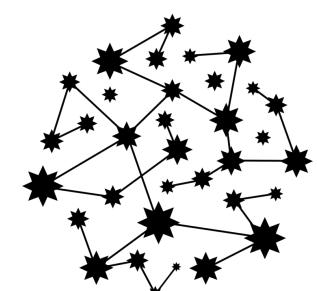

anniecannons

Vulnerability results from social problems

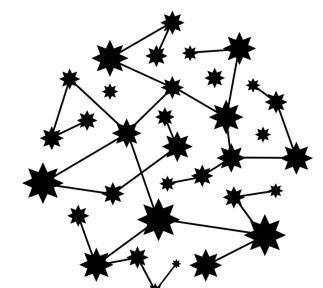

anniecannons

Vulnerability is revealed by demand

anniecannons

Vulnerability is leftover when we cannot help.

anniecannons

Rescue isn't the end - it's the beginning.

Survivors know
vulnerability.

anniecannons

Help turn off the faucet before you help
measure the flood.

anniecannons

anniecannons

THANK YOU

Jessica@anniecannons.com

find us online at anniecannons.org