

Greg Lastowka
Professor
Rutgers School of Law, Camden

Biography

Professor Lastowka teaches courses in the laws of property and intellectual property. He is an expert on Internet law and his opinions have been quoted in publications such as Nature, The Economist, Scientific American, and the New York Times. He is a co-director of the Rutgers Institute for Information Policy & Law.

Professor Lastowka earned his B.A. summa cum laude at Yale College in 1991. From 1994-1996, he served with the United States Peace Corps in Turkmenistan, where he was the co-author of the first Turkmen-English dictionary. He earned his J.D. from the University of Virginia in 2000.

Prior to joining the Rutgers faculty in 2004, Professor Lastowka clerked for Judge Walter K. Stapleton on the Third Circuit and practiced intellectual property and technology litigation at Dechert LLP. While at Dechert, he was pro bono co-counsel for Ken Hamidi in the landmark case of Intel Corp. v. Hamidi.