

Apply to join the Science and Technology for Sustainability Program as a Christine Mirzayan Science & Technology Policy Graduate Fellow for 2019!

The National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine are accepting applications for the 2019 session of the Christine Mirzayan Science & Technology Policy Graduate Fellowship Program. This 12-week program is a full-time hands-on training and educational program that provides early career individuals with essential skills and knowledge needed to work in science and technology policy at the federal, state, or local levels.

The Science and Technology for Sustainability Program will host one Mirzayan fellow during the 2019 session, who will work closely with the STS staff and our Science and Technology for Sustainability Roundtable. STS is seeking candidates interested in advancing sustainable improvements in human well-being and catalyzing action at the intersection of the three pillars of sustainability. Graduate and professional school students and those who have completed graduate studies within the last five years may apply.

To apply, please visit the Mirzayan fellowship website.
