Benedict College Commitment Statement in support of the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine Action Collaborative on Preventing Sexual Harassment in Higher Education

November 19, 2019

The National Academies report on Sexual Harassment of Women: Climate, Culture, and Consequences in Academic Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine (2018) found that between 20 and 50 percent of women students and more than 50 percent of women faculty and staff experienced sexually harassing behavior while in academia. Research demonstrates that sexual harassment undermines the professional and educational attainment and mental and physical health of people of all genders. It also shows that these consequences are not limited to those experiencing it directly; but that bystanders experience ambient harassment in their work or education environment are also affected and this in turn affects organizations as employees disengage, withdraw, and leave their work so as not to become the next target. The Sexual Harassment of Women report concludes that system-wide changes to the culture and climate in higher education are needed and provides a roadmap for higher education to make these changes.

The mission of Benedict College is to serve as an institution of higher learning where transformative education, innovation in technology and enterprise, and commitment to community all merge in a dynamic environment. An environment where students receive the education, nurturing and development from faculty, staff, and stakeholders that prepare them to enter the global marketplace. The legacy of Benedict College as a pioneering ‘power for good in society’ will only be fulfilled if we actively create respectful and inclusive environments that convey sexual harassment is not tolerated and proactively work to mitigate or eliminate factors that contribute to its occurrence.

To advance efforts to prevent and effectively respond to sexual harassment, Benedict College is joining other institutions and the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine to form an Action Collaborative on Preventing Sexual Harassment in Higher Education. Together we aim to achieve targeted, collective action toward evidence-based policies and practices at the individual and systems levels for addressing and preventing all forms of sexual harassment and promoting a culture of civility and respect. The four goals of the Action Collaborative are to:

- raise awareness about sexual harassment and how it occurs, the consequences of sexual harassment, and the organizational characteristics and recommended approaches that can prevent it;
- share and elevate evidence-based institutional policies and strategies to reduce and prevent sexual harassment;
- contribute to setting the research agenda, and gather and apply research results across institutions; and
- develop a standard for measuring progress toward reducing and preventing sexual harassment in higher education.

Benedict College hereby commits to support the goals of the National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine Action Collaborative on Preventing Sexual Harassment in Higher Education.
